PEOPLE ON THE MOVE

Danielle Davis has joined MGH marketing and communications agency as an account executive in the public relations department. Davis formerly worked as the deputy communications director for Rep. Tom Price in Georgia. Davis will work on client accounts Common Ground Alliance, Maryland Technology Development Corp. and Run for Your Lives. Davis holds a bachelor's degree in political science and communications from Elon University, as well as a master's degree in public administration from American University.

Steven Jessup, who joined Sun Life Financial Inc. in 2011, has been appointed to cover the company's Baltimore/Richmond territories. Jessup will be responsible for supporting Sun Life's employee benefits representatives.

Jake Fratangelo has joined Hunt Valley-based Renegade Communications after gaining experience with Baltimore-based agencies Havit Advertising and Novak Birch. Fratangelo graduated from the University of Maryland, College Park in 2009 and is pursuing a master's degree in marketing communications from the University of Maryland University College.

Jena Richardson has been named production coordinator at Renegade Communications. She will work in a variety of production capacities, including producer, location, casting and production. Richardson graduated from Towson University with a bachelor's degree in electronic media and film.

Chris Roederer joins Renegade Communications as post production supervisor after working as a freelancer on many of the agency's projects. He received a bachelor's degree in film, video and theater from Stevenson University in December 2010.

J.J. Schaus joins Renegade Communications in the areas of design and Web development. He earned an AST in graphic design and the Academic Director's Award from the Art Institute of York, Pa. Additionally, Schaus received a bachelor's degree in Web design and interactive media from the Art Institute of Philadelphia.

The board of directors for Waverly Main Street welcomes Jermaine Johnson as the organization's new director. The group represents the interests of businesses along the Greenmount commercial corridor and is also charged with the revitalization and economic development of Greenmount Avenue in North Baltimore, in tandem with the Baltimore Development Corp. Johnson comes to the organization after working with 34th District Councilwoman Mary Pat Clarke, as director of legislative affairs and previously as the community development director for the Greater Homewood Community Corp.

Karen Ellsworth with Carney, Kelehan, Bresler, Bennett and Scherr LLP, a general practice law firm based in Columbia, joined the board of the United Seniors of Maryland Education Foundation. The foundation promotes the well-being of Maryland seniors through education, dissemination of information about state legislation, and demonstration projects.

Kim Szondy, the former promotions coordinator at the Maryland Science Center, has been promoted to marketing manager. Szondy will support and coordinate the museum's marketing and promotional initiatives.

Molly Melendez has joined the Maryland Science Center as promotions coordinator. Melendez will create and manage promotional events and sponsorship programs.